Appropriation Is Made By Legislature For the Construction of New Building

Plans are being drawn for the new Home Economics Demonstration Cottage which will be erected as the result of an appropriation of $15,000 passed by the regular session of the legislature.

The new building will be located today by President J. A. Hill. It will either be built on the campus, or near the campus so as to be convenient for use of the girls in the department.

Miss Orpa Denis, head of the department, has returned and will devote her time to assist in making plans for the new building, which will be such an important factor in the Home Economics Department.

O. M. Carder of Amarillo is drawing plans for the building. According to tentative plans, the building will be constructed of brick. The first floor will be devoted to reception hall, kitchen and dining room and office for the director. Living quarters will be on the second floor. With the money available, it is thought that a nine room house will be possible.

The plans will be ready for the next meeting of the Board of Regents in Galveston on August 27. If the plans are approved at that time, bids will be called for immediately and construction started.

Stanley Free Died Saturday at Waggy Residence Here

Funeral services for Stanley Free, 53, pioneer resident of the Panhandle, who died Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Waggy, were held at 3:30 Monday afternoon at the Blackburn-Shaw Funeral home in Amarillo.

Dr. Roy Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian Church of Amarillo, officiated. Interment was in the Llano Cemetery.

Mr. Free was born Jan. 31, 1884 at Melford, Ontario, Canada. He came to the United States with his parents when he was a small boy. He lived in Iowa and Missouri before coming to Texas in 1906 and lived near Canyon and Amarillo until the time of his death. He was married Dec. 12, 1923, to Miss Lillian Waggy.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Lillian Free; a brother John Free of Springer, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Beckwith and daughter, Paula, of Amarillo; and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Waggy of Canyon.

MEXICAN MOTHER BURIED AT DREAMLAND CEMETERY

Mrs. Carmen Flores died Thursday afternoon. She was the wife of Benny Flores, a Mexican who has lived here for several years. In addition to the husband, four children survive.

The funeral was held Friday morning at Dreamland Cemetery conducted by a Catholic Priest from Amarillo. The Griggs-Thompson Funeral Home was in charge of the burial.

Mrs. Emmett Belles and children and Mrs. W. L. Bryson returned today to their home at Torrance, California, after visiting for two weeks at the parental C. S. Sanford home. They were accompanied by their aunt, Miss Alice Wooten.

Program of Conservation Necessary to Hold Soil Is Statement Made By County Agent

That conservation is needed to save the soil of the Great Plains was made clear to members of the Rotary Club at the Tuesday luncheon by County Agent W. H. Upchurch.

Mr. Upchurch presented charts to show the average rainfall for ten year periods from 1880, indicating that dry and wet cycles had alternated during this period. The rainfall for the past 8½ years averages 15.66 inches per year, which is the lowest average this section has had.

Another chart presented by Mr. Upchurch showed the increase of wheat acreage since 1928 and the average yield per acre.

Mr. Upchurch traced the geology of this section, and indicated the things that has taken place in the early years of the earth's history.

"So far as I know, man is the only creature on earth that can upset the orderly processes of nature," stated the speaker. "Man has often upset the balances created by nature. If we kill off the birds and then insects increase until we are forced to kill insects in order to live ourselves. We kill off coyotes and the jack rabbits, and other rodents increase until they become serious pests. These are insignificant compared with the major upset caused by man's destruction of natural resources which includes the soil from which we live."

Mr. Upchurch pointed out that soil is formed at the average rate of one inch per thousand years. Man's destruction of soil has been much faster, but it so slow that we do not become alarmed until the problem is serious.

Hopper Poison Is Still Available

No Danger of Poison to Chickens and Fish Is A. & M. Report

Grasshopper poison is not dangerous when chickens and fish eat the dead hoppers is the opinion of R. R. Reppert of College Station. It was reported last week that a family in a neighboring county was seriously ill as the result of eating a chicken which had been fed on poisoned grasshoppers.

County Agent W. H. Upchurch sent the following telegram to College Station on Thursday seeking information regarding the poison: "Poisoning grasshoppers along good fishing stream, what danger to fish and fisherman? What danger to chickens and persons eating same?"

The following reply came from Mr. Reppert:

"Danger negligible and too fantastic to be considered."

However, there is great danger of having the poison around, unless protected from children. In the field the poison is spread so thin that a child could hardly pick up a sufficient amount to be dangerous. Around the home, a child might easily secure enough to cause serious illness or even death, unless the poison is carefully guarded.

Grasshoppers are working badly on the alfalfa and row crop in the low lands of the county, and farmers are using a considerable amount of the poison.

Mr. Upchurch has plenty of the poison for those who wish to put it out.

RE-NUMBERING METERS

All electric meters in Canyon, Happy and Umbarger are being re-numbered by the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Co. A special man is being put on the job by the local manager, J. B. Morrisette. Citizens will understand the motive of the man as they see him going over town working on the meters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McReynolds and children and Mrs. D. M. Foster and children are spending their vacation at Ruidosa, N. M.

Miss Winnie Dee Hicks visited with Mrs. Elmer Patterson, Hereford, over the week-end.

ROBERT W. FOSTER
Robert W. Foster has been named secretary-treasurer of the Canyon National Farm Loan Association to succeed his father, G. G. Foster. Mr. Foster has been secretary of the association since 1927. The office will be continued at the same location with G. G. Foster, where Robert has been assistant for several years.

District Court to Meet Next Monday

Light Docket Is In Pros- pect for Term; No Jury First Week

The summer session of District Court will open in Canyon next Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

District Judge E. C. Nelson will preside and will be assisted by District Attorney Robert E. Underwood.

The first business for the term will be the empanelling of the grand jury, which will start on its investigation of law infractions within the county during the past six months.

Owing to the small amount of jury business in prospect, the petit jurors selected for the first week were not called for duty. Judge Nelson notified Sheriff Barnett late last week that the petit jury for the first week was unnecessary.

The docket for the session is very light, according to District Clerk A. B. Holt. Non-jury cases are expected to be disposed of during the first week of court.

Parking Lines at New Postoffice

All Car Owners Asked to Observe Regulations and Save Confusion

Parking regulations were put into effect around the new postoffice Monday when yellow lines were painted on the pavement to direct cars. Since the new postoffice building was put in use last week, cars parked every way imaginable, and as a result great confusion existed.

Those who wish to park in front of the building are asked to drive around the block and come up to the curb from the north. This will provide ample space for backing into the street.

Those who wish to park on the south side of the building will use the yellow lines, and park at the degree angle rather than parallel. When the building was put into use last week most of those using the south side of the building used the parallel system.

Those wishing to park their cars for any length of time are asked not to leave them on the east side of the building. It will greatly facilitate those who drive up for their mail if cars do not stand on the east side of the building for a longer time than necessary to transact business at the postoffice.

Double parking is prohibited by city ordinance on either side of the building.

Citizens who will follow the new regulations will find that much time will be saved at the postoffice. The increased amount of parking space around the building is a very distinct advantage over the old post-office location, and city authorities urge all citizens to observe the rules in order to avoid confusion.

Swimming Pool Is Opened to Citizens Tuesday Evening

The Buffalo Swimming Pool was opened free to local citizens Tuesday evening when President J. A. Hill extended an invitation for local people to use the pool. About 75 people took a swim at that time.

Local people may use the pool on Tuesday and Friday evenings by securing a health certificate and buying tickets at the office of Business Manager Travis Shaw.

Bathing suits and towels are available at the pool, or local people may use their own suits.

T. C. Thompson was in Dallas on business over the week end.

Light Rain Falls Sunday in Canyon

Harvest Is Nearly Over in County; Row Crop Is Benefitted

Rain amounting to .35 of an inch fell in Canyon Sunday afternoon. The rain did not cover all of the county. The heaviest part of the rain centered around Canyon. Practically no rain fell in the north part of the county. Some of the farmers living directly south of Canyon state that a little more rain fell in that section than in Canyon.

The temperature has been holding around the 100 degree mark throughout the past week. The high point was reached Saturday afternoon when the thermometer registered 102½ degrees in the shade. 102 was registered Tuesday.

Wheat harvest continues this week in small proportion in various sections of the county, although the major part of the wheat was cut last week. The wheat that is now being cut is very light, and while much of it is not paying the expense of harvest, it is necessary to remove it from the ground.

Boy Scouts Will Camp at Harding Ranch August 22-9

The annual encampment for the Boy Scouts in this area will be held at Harding Ranch on August 22-29. A. A. Meredith of Amarillo is chairman of the Amarillo Area Council Committee and has named Clyde Warwick as representative from Canyon.

Levi Cole, Canyon Scoutmaster, will have a large number of local boys in the camp.

Each boy will pay $1 per day for living expenses during the camp. Arrangements are being made to give the boys excellent accommodations at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Allred of Roswell were here Friday on business. They were formerly residents of Canyon.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Donnell and Charles returned Saturday from a ten days trip to Colorado.

Warren Is Highly Pleased At Progress Reported Yesterday on Dam and Lake Program

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

President Signs Bill to Make Possible Conserva- tion Program Over the Plains Area.

Randall county farmers are asked to inspect their land with a view of filing requests for the construction of lakes and dams in the near future. These requests will be filed with the county planning board at the proper time.

W. A. Warren, vice president of the Water Conservation Authority, makes this announcement and asks that the land owners be ready with their requests when called upon.

President Roosevelt signed the conservation bill Friday which paves the way for the water conservation movement in the Panhandle. This bill provides $10,000,000 for the purchase of marginal land. It is contemplated that this money will be used largely on dams and lakes.

"The whole situation looks very good, but so far there is nothing for certain," reported Mr. Warren yesterday after a meeting of the directors of the association with Carl Hinton who has been in Washington for several months. Mr. Hinton returns to Washington today and will try to work out the final details.

Prospects for the construction of Buffalo Dam are very good, states Mr. Warren. Several large projects are possible in the Panhandle, but the major part of the money will be spent in building smaller lakes and dams on the individual farms. It is proposed that farmers be given contracts to build their own lakes on their own land. The government has found this the most effective method in other parts of the nation. This provides a work program, as well as a conservation program. Each county will be given a quota of money, which will be distributed on the building of lakes and dams upon recommendation of the county planning board.

No applications are to be filed at once, but this request is made now so that farmers may look over their property and see the locations which are available so that the county planning board may act at the proper time.

Wallace R. Clark Is Second in Sen- ior Golf Tourney

Wallace R. Clark of Canyon was runner-up in the Tri-State Senior golf championship match Thursday at the Amarillo Country Club when he was defeated in the run-off round by B. F. Holmes of Shamrock, 3 to 2. Holmes held the championship crown of the Tri-State golfers once before in 1935. Clark won a set of wood clubs as an award for his place in the tourney.

Clark pulled the biggest upset of the tourney to beat Bob Skaggs, medalist and defending champion, 3 to 2, by playing steady golf to take advantage of every opportunity. Clark's presence in the final was the first time in golfing career he ever played for a championship.

Following the matches, O. T. Nicholson, president of the association, presented prizes to all flight champions, consolation winners, and runners-up. Eighty golfers qualified in this odd tourney where one had to be 50 years old or older to play. Twenty-five towns from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico were represented.

BISHOP SPEAKS TO MEN

Sentiment, pride, prejudice, precedent, law and many other things get mixed up in connection with the school apportionment which was set at $22 by the State Board of Education, and which act was nullified by the action of the State Automatic Tax Board in lowering the tax rate so as to make the $22 apportionment impossible. The citizen who wishes to be fair and unbiased in the matter will keep in mind the fact that both boards think that it is following the law in this matter. One is certain to be wrong. It took some political courage for the Tax Board to undo the acts of the State Board of Education in the face of threats, and demands upon the part of the school people. Governor Allred is right in maintaining that he has always been a friend of education, and that the schools have received more than ever before under his administration. Comptroller George Sheppard is the ablest man who has filled this office in years, and the schools have greatly profited by the acts of Sheppard in his diligent collection of taxes which go to the schools. These men are standing by the law as they read it. The Education Board has no law to back the stand it has taken, but rely wholly upon the sentiment which they know to exist in favor of higher school apportionment. In the meanwhile, we have read nothing from the State Board of Education which condemns the unequal distribution of this huge fund, giving the negro and Mexican children, who do not attend school, the same amount of money as the white children who attend school nine months of the year. Let the light be turned on, while we are in a sweat over the school apportionment.

The President's court reform bill has been shelved for the present, and the only reform that will affect the lower courts. For the present, at least, the Supreme Court will escape the much needed reform. Aside from half a dozen radical leaders who were against the bill, the Senators were mighty glad to see the bill returned to the committee where it will be revamped and reported back by the end of this week. Up until the death of Senator Robinson, the President was assured of a sufficient number of votes to pass the reform measure. The fight over Robinson's successor no doubt lost some support for the bill. There were a sufficient number of Senators anxious to escape the record vote, that the leader's death was taken as an excuse for not acting upon the original measure. Honor of saving a semblance of court reform and for healing the rapidly opening breach in the Democratic party goes to Vice President Garner. Garner told both the President and the Democratic leaders that the court fight would probably cost the party control of congress in 1938 and would result in defeat in 1940. Both factions listened to the experienced Texan, and as a result it is predicted that a united Democracy will again be possible by the end of this session of Congress. To the professional politician continuation in office is more desirable than victory upon one issue. With the termination of the fight, it can no longer be charged that the Democratic party is a one-man affair, and that the nation is in the hands of a dictator.

Legislation is all set to promote water conservation in the Panhandle. President Roosevelt signed the bill Friday which gives authority to purchase marginal land for such purposes. People of this section are thinking of the proposed Buffalo Dam south of Umparger. People in other sections of the Panhandle have other projects in view. Engineers have viewed the various major projects in this section. Just how soon one or more of these can get underway is hard to predict. Usually the government moves very, very slowly. Many projects have been started and altogether abandoned. More has been accomplished since the first of December than most citizens thought possible in the same length of time. But the difficulties will begin to develop rapidly as the projects get underway. The usual departmental jealousy will be a great handicap. The difference of opinion will enter into the project, as to location of dams, the size of projects, etc. Land procurement usually is a big factor. The government will be very sure that it is not paying too much for any land purchased, and may differ with the owners over this question. If construction gets underway on any of the Dust Bowl projects within a year, it will be most surprising.

Delinquent taxes are always the nightmare of governing bodies in school districts, cities and counties. The State of Texas tried the method of remitting penalty and interest during the depth of the depression. Some who were then delinquent paid off, but some of these are now in the red hoping that the state will again become generous. With a return of improved conditions, it is nothing more than right that delinquent taxes be collected. There are many who could raise the money, but will neglect to pay taxes just as long as possible. A large number of Panhandle counties are forcing the collection of taxes, and suits are being filed against those who refuse to pay up. Incidentally, a constitutional amendment will be voted upon August 23rd which seeks to give the prompt taxpayer a break. It provides that the legislature may grant a discount to those who pay their taxes on time. Those who have paid in the past have taken it on the chin when the state has remitted the penalty and interest to those who were delinquent. It is time that the state recognizes those who furnish the cash to keep the state going, and this amendment is a good one.

A visiting teacher in Canyon points out the deplorable fact that there are more school trustees in the nation than there are school teachers. A large percent of the trustees have no special qualifications to serve in the important place to which they are elected. Many of them are definitely unqualified, and are a great hindrance to the schools which they represent. The school business is the third largest function of the government. Perhaps more money has been wasted under the guise of education than through any other method, largely because of ineffective handling by trustees unqualified for their jobs. Consolidation of schools is the order of the day. Better schools for less money may be secured in most instances when the people take some interest in the management of these institutions.

Word from Washington indicates that President Roosevelt is more concerned over the threatened European war than he is with internal conditions in the United States. Japan is again at China's throat. Europe could easily be dragged into such a conflict, with Russia aiding China, while Germany would side with Japan. Then again the Spanish situation has not improved, with Mussolini more than determined that the insurgents, whom he is backing, shall win. While more economists believe that a general war cannot be started during 1937, they are none too optimistic over the prospects for 1938. The President fully realizes that another war would most certainly drag the United States into the conflict whether we willed it or not.

The Newsman is 27 years old today. It was on July 29, 1910, that we arrived in Canyon to take charge of the News, and this has been our home ever since. The News has a unique history in so far that during its 41 years of usefulness, there have been only five different editors. The News was started by Mrs. R. W. Morgan as The Stayer. Geo. L. Brandon bought the publication in its fifth year and changed the name to The News. Mr. Brandon was succeeded by R. A. Terrill, who was followed by L. B. Christman for a few months before the present management took charge. Only two newspapers in the Panhandle have been under the same management for a longer period than The Canyon News.

Traxler is in the Oklahoma penitentiary and will be tried on the charge of robbery with firearms. This carries a death penalty in Oklahoma, and he can be tried in three different counties. It is hoped that Oklahomans will show more respect for law and order than Texas has shown so far as Traxler is concerned. Those old country boys who pumped lead into Traxler and his bandit partner are certainly to be commended and should be amply rewarded. It is almost a miracle that the bandit was caught before he had killed one or more peace officers.

Famed McGuffey Readers Round Out 100th Anniversary of Set's First Publication

THE little red schoolhouse, steeped in its tradition of the three R's, its stiff-backed schoolmaster, and its rod of birch, is no longer a familiar part of our educational system.

The readin' and 'ritin', and 'rithmetic of our fathers and grandfathers are still the same fundamentally, but now we have, in addition, such high-powered things as economics, social science, and a bit of astronomy thrown in for good measure.

The scene has changed all right, but thousands of the older generation remember their little two or three-room schools—and their McGuffey readers.

William Holmes McGuffey, a professor at Miami University at Oxford, O., wrote this famous series of books, and on July 31 and Aug. 1, members of McGuffey societies which have sprung up all over the country, will gather at Oxford to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the third and fourth readers.

This year marks the rounding out of the first century since Professor McGuffey's Eclectic Readers, as they are called, made their debut in the mid-west.

WILLIAM HOLMES MCGUFFEY, despite the fame of his work, is given little mention in American history. He was born in 1800 in a wilderness cabin in western Pennsylvania. His own formal education was obtained only after much hardship, working his way through Washington College, now Washington and Jefferson. He then tutored at a Paris, Ky., private school and from there went as a professor to Miami University.

It was while at Miami that he conceived of the idea of revolutionary educational methods for the public schools, and started with his famous readers. Now, educators have stated that no books in American history have exerted such an uplifting influence upon the youth of the nation, have done more to improve the morals and culture of school children during the 19th century, than McGuffey's readers.

He was the first to put human interest, life, adventure, morals, and lessons into a textbook. Every text emphasized some lesson or a virtue of some sort. Evil was discredited and goodness encouraged. To add to the effectiveness of the books, simple woodcuts of little boys and girls, in dress of the period, illustrated the characters.

14. Take it all in all, a sailor's life is a very hard life. Our young friends owe a debt of gratitude to those whose home is upon the great waters, and who bring them the luxuries of other countries.

7. At length, the bear, which was the most severely beaten, showing no signs of fight, the young man rose and fled, leaving his boots and hat behind him.

William Holmes McGuffey, author of the famous series of school books that bears his name, is shown at left above. At the right is the monument to his memory, erected by Henry Ford, near Claysville, Pa., near the site of McGuffey's birthplace. A young woman whose grandparents no doubt spent many hours over the eclectic readers, is seated at the base of the monument. Below are examples of the lessons in the readers, illustrated by wood cuts of the times.

It is estimated that at least 100,000,000 Americans have been influenced by the McGuffey readers from the time of their appearance in the schools until the turn of the 20th century. The last edition was printed in 1901. In all, the series included a primer, a speller, and six readers.

Although William McGuffey did by far the greater part of the work on the set, his brother Alexander is credited with authorship of the speller, and the fifth and sixth readers.

BECAUSE of the great interest and tremendous sentiment among men and women who grew up with the books, McGuffey societies began to spring up over the country. Henry Ford gathered everything he could get pertaining to the McGuffey readers. Today his museum at Dearborn, Mich., contains one of the finest McGuffey collections in existence. In September, 1934, Ford personally dedicated a monument to William Holmes McGuffey near Claysville, Pa., where the author was born.

Certain New York educators have indicated a desire to re-instate the readers in New York schools. Whether little Johnny and Mary would accept them wholeheartedly, in the face of modern trends of thought, is unpredictable. But if the McGuffey Readers should find their way back into the classrooms, there might very easily be a lot of grandparents suddenly taking a big interest in their grandchildren's homework.

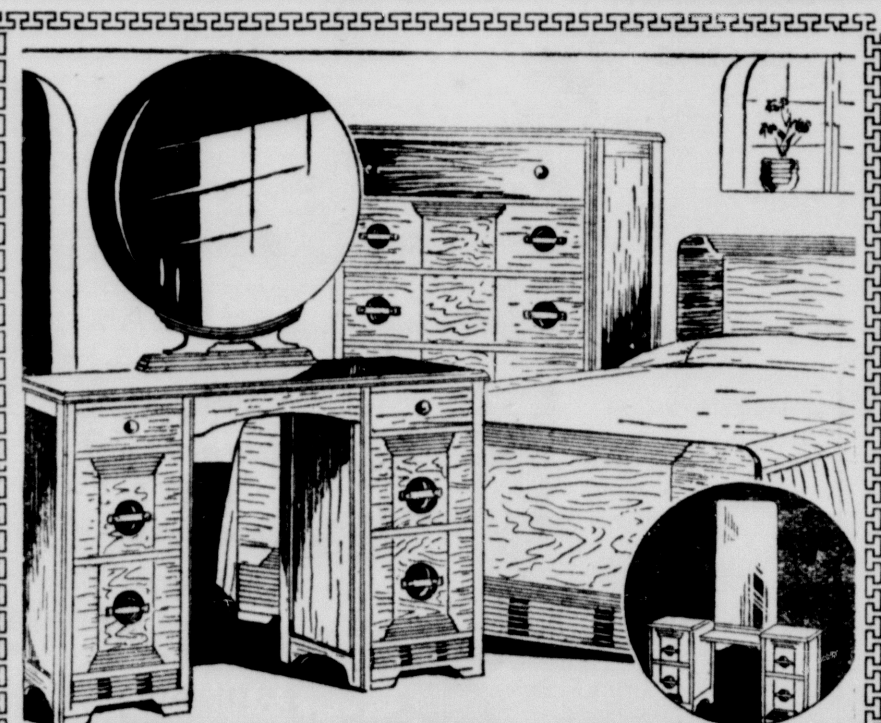

Texas only 3 years. The constitution seems to be in the way of the son as well as the father.

Difference of opinion: Administration leaders proclaim the court battle was a partial victory. Opponents maintain it was a complete defeat.

Surplus is the chief enemy of profitable farming. From reports over the nation, a huge surplus will again be piled up this year which will drive prices downward.

Civil war has been underway in Spain for one year. Mussolini has nothing to boast about in this conflagration which he has supported so vigorously.

The report from the Russians' North Pole camp that high temperatures caused the ice to turn into slush is going to make a lot of kids lose faith in their geography teachers.

Enrollment for the second six weeks closed officially last week with the total now 1110 students entered in W. T. for the semester. WE'D BETTER STICK TO THE RAILROADS

The past week there has been an agent for one of the large truck lines in town soliciting for their company, and asking the business houses to sign up to have their freight shipments turned over to the truck lines in preference to the railroads. We didn't sign and were not backward in telling him why.

The railroad is giving as good a service as we could wish for, their rates are as low as, if not lower than, the truck line's. They deliver the freight to your door without extra charge. They travel on their own right-of-way, which they built and paid for. They don't interfere with or endanger your traveling in your private car on the highway. They pay their full share of property tax in each county through which they operate. They support two or more families in each town, who in turn help support the merchant. And speaking from a newspaper standpoint, the truck line solicitor had hardly gone out the door before the railway agent stepped in with a two-column ad for the paper.

No, we don't believe in taking our business away from the railroads and giving it to the truck lines. As we look at it, the railroads built up the country for the people, and the people built up the highways for the trucks. That makes quite a difference. We have and can get along without the trucks, but we can't get along without the railroads. So we had better stick by them.—From the Monona (Ia.) Leader.

STATEMENT

By MARVIN JONES
Chairman, House Committee on Agriculture

I have submitted to the Committee on Agriculture suggested provisions for general farm legislation. The measure containing these provisions is based largely on suggestions made by farmers and farm groups and by Committee members. Its major features are as follows:

1. It continues the present Soil Conservation Act as a basis. The present program has worked well and should not be abandoned.

2. Its declared objective is to establish and maintain so far as is practicable parity prices for all farm commodities and parity income for all farmers, as well as to continue soil conservation.

3. It provides an ever-normal granary, warehouse, or storage reserve for the five major non-perishable commodities which are ordinarily produced in surplus quantities. This would benefit both producer and consumer.

4. The measure provides a graduated scale of soil conservation and benefit payments so that there will be a reduction in payments to large operators.

5. It provides a fund for search for new uses and new markets for farm commodities and the products thereof, including a research laboratory for each major producing area.

6. Provision is also made for the use of a fund for the purpose of disposing of our surplus commodities both at home and abroad. This would tend to promote world trade, in which the entire nation is interested.

7. Another new feature authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to file application on behalf of farmers or co-operative organizations of farmers for adjustment in freight rate schedules. The freight rates on many farm commodities are out of proportion to the general rate schedules and absorb too large a part of the value of farm production.

8. As to certain crops a market control provision as a further safeguard is provided.

The Committee is considering these suggestions together with the different suggestions made by the various farm groups, the three major farm groups having submitted or endorsed different measures. From these it is hoped that a thoroughly practical and effective general farm measure may be worked out.

Then there was the baseball fan who made a radio program request for "Wake Up and Live," and dedicated it to the Cleveland Indians.

And then there are the Russian generals who found out that liquidation had nothing to do with their assets.

Speed Mark Threatened on Utah Salt Flats

BY IRVING DIX

A HURLING speck of steel hummed across the flat, white wastes of the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah. The hum turned into a low-pitched whine, the whine crescendoed into a thundering roar, and then a long, low, blurred object rocketed past a group of men standing near a tent.

The roaring streak that flashed past the men was the Bluebird, piloted by Sir Malcolm Campbell, Britain's demon of the speedways, and after moments of checking and figuring, the men near the tent revealed that Campbell had set a new world speed record of 301.133 miles per hour.

Today Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City is preparing for his attempt to shatter the Englishman's mark, set in September, 1935, and also to establish a new record for speed on land. For years the great salt flats 100 miles from Salt Lake City have been used as a testing ground for automobiles, and as a speed course for the dare-devils who aspire to the title of the world automobile speed king. As far as the eye can see, stretches the vast expanse of white, solid salt.

No one knows how deep this layer of salt goes, but it lays like smooth, polished silver, and according to engineers, the best driving course in the world.

Within the next few weeks Jenkins and others will drive their thundering mounts over the level plain in an attempt to set records for varying distances, but Jenkins' effort to bring the speed record for the measured mile back to America will attract the most attention.

Already possessing more Bonneville speed marks than any other driver alive, Jenkins has rigged up his "Mormon Meteor II" with two Curtiss-Wright motors, capable of developing 3600 horsepower—1400 horsepower more than Campbell's Bluebird. A specially designed cockpit for the driver, and a rudder effect to keep the car on a straight path are innovations that have been added to the same auto with which Jenkins set previous records.

ANOTHER American, Harlan Fenger of Los Angeles, also may attempt to lower the titled Englishman's mark. Fenger, if he makes the run, will use a racer which he claims should do 340 miles an hour. It took five years to develop at an estimated $100,000 cost. Called the "Yankee Doodle," it carries two 12-cylinder, 2000-horsepower motors.

Capt. George E. T. Eyston, an Englishman who has previously raced at Bonneville, will be on hand with his "Flying Spray," a Diesel-powered, three-ton affair, in an attempt to uphold Britain's claim to the record.

Recent rains have packed the salt flats harder than ever and engineers say the course is faster than it has been for any previous runs. All of which indicates speed and more speed, and when Jenkins, Fenger, Eyston and others streak down the straightaway, Sir Malcolm Campbell's record may be left in the wake of clouds of salty dust.

ONE IS AS BAD AS THE OTHER
Clarendon News: Newspaper men have been traditional promoters and champions of trading at home, and they have done so in spite of the fact that some business men who cry about so much buying away from home, are guilty of ordering their printing needs from the city printing houses.

Just any ordinary variety of honesty will agree that buying printing out of town is just as bad as buying groceries or dry goods away from home.

We need more loyal support of every home institution—hardware, furniture, grocery, drugs, dry goods and printing. We ought to recognize that in buying in any one line away from home, one is just as bad as the other.

Give the home man the breaks—if he hasn't what you want, get him to order it for you—you'll still save money, while you are strengthening the hand that feeds you.

Mystery Golfer Facing Trial

Said by experts to be one of the world's greatest golfers, "Mysterious" John Montague, above, of Los Angeles, faced trial in New York on charges by New York police that he was an accomplice in a tavern robbery seven years ago. See Barkley as Senate Leader

Senator Alben W. Barkley, above, Kentuckian who made the keynote address at the 1932 and 1936 Democratic national conventions, was regarded as the logical choice to succeed to the majority leadership of the Senate, following the recent sudden death of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

Noted Aviators Talking Shop

New Court Scene for Net Star

Helen Wells Moody, California's former tennis queen, faced a different type of court-battle when she went to Reno, Nev., where she sought a divorce from her husband, Frederick S. Moody, Jr. The couple, shown above dancing at a ball in San Francisco, were married in 1929.

FIRST IN HISTORY

Where the Buffalo and Tennessee Rivers meet is a fertile bend known as Pig Bottom. On this little piece of farm land a daughter was born to William and Lucy Wyatt on Feb. 1, 1878, Hattie, as her name was recorded in the large family Bible, grew into a quiet girl who helped her mother around the house and her father milk the cows until she was sent to a little college in Dickson, Tenn.

At Dickson Normal College young Miss Wyatt changed her first name to Hattie, and after eight years of courtship she allowed her schoolmate Thaddeus Caraway to change her last name to his. The young couple moved to Jonesboro and while "Thad" became a competent young lawyer, Hattie became an equally competent young housewife.

Last week quiet, housewife Hattie Caraway became the first woman in the history of the United States to serve any state as its senior senator. Her elevation to this position, after the death of senior Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, was tallied in the Senate as Mrs. Caraway's "first." The first woman to be elected to the Senate by popular vote, she also was the first of her sex to be chairman of a Senate committee, to conduct a Senate hearing, and to preside over the Senate.

When her husband, who had been a Senator from Arkansas, died in 1931, Mrs. Caraway was chosen at a special election the next year to fill his seat. Her election was deemed nothing more than a gracious gesture on the part of Arkansas politicians who could not agree upon an heir to the Caraway post. In the Senate, Mrs. Caraway, who was known in Washington only as "a demure little woman," was seated next to boisterous Huey Long of Louisiana, and, without explanation, she promptly became his chief supporter. In 1933, the time came for the next senatorial election in Arkansas, and "The King Fish" helped Mrs. Caraway win more votes than her six opponents combined.

Then, back in Washington for a term that will not expire until 1939, Senator Hattie Caraway again took her place in the Senate chamber, where she usually sits huddled during sessions, apparently absorbed in a cross-word puzzle. Without Huey to guide her, she now votes as she thinks "Thad" would have done.

AWARD SHOWS U. S. FIRST IN BEAUTIFUL BRIDGES

New York — The Ninth Annual Award by the American Institute of Steel Construction for the three most beautiful bridges built in the United States during 1936, and just announced, is hailed by leading architects and engineers as emphasizing America's supremacy in the designing and construction of beautiful bridges.

The East River Crossing, Triborough Bridge, of New York City, received the highest award in class "A" which comprises monumental bridges, costing more than $1,000,000. In class "B", including bridges costing between $250,000 and $1,000,000, the Hurricane Deck Bridge, Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, won the award, while the Astoria Boulevard over Grand Central Parkway Extension, New York City, won the first place in class "C" comprising bridges costing less than $250,000. These three bridges will be decorated with the stainless steel plaque of the American Institute of Steel Construction, designating them the most beautiful bridges built last year, while their engineers, architects, designers, fabricators and builders will receive certificates of award.

The Jury of Award was composed of the following distinguished architects and engineers: Harvey Wiley Corbett, of Corbett and MacMurray, architects; Leonard Schultze, of Schultze and Weaver, architects; Dr. Clarence W. Hudson, consulting engineer; Robert Ridgway, consulting engineer, and A. Lawrence Kocher, editor of the Architectural Record.

The East River Crossing, Triborough Bridge, winner in class "A"

East River Crossing, The Triborough Bridge, New York, winner of First Place in Class A.

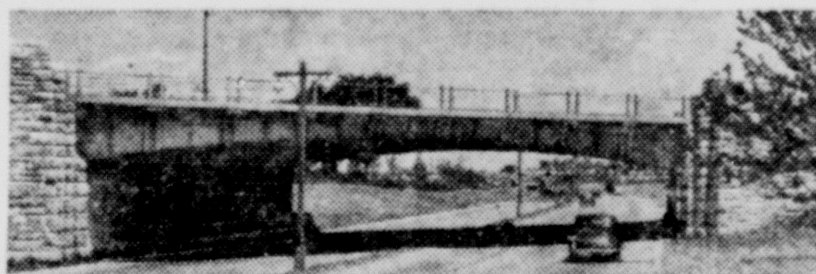

The Hurricane Deck Bridge across Sage Arm of the Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, winner of First Place, Class B.

cost $8,500,000. Its engineers were the Triborough Bridge Authority, O. H. Ammann, chief engineer; Allston Dana was engineer of design, and Aymar Embury II, architect. The fabricators were the Bethlehem Steel Co., the American Bridge Co. and the American Locomotive Co. The span length is 1,380 feet and the width 113 feet. The bridge is owned by the Triborough Bridge Authority and was opened to traffic July 11, 1936.

The Hurricane Deck Bridge, winner in class "B", crosses the Sage Arm of the Lake of the Ozarks, Camden County, Mo., between Versailles and Camden, and was built at a total cost of $8,500,000. Its engineers were Sverdrup & Parcel, and its fabricators Stupp Bros. Bridge and Iron Co., who fabricated the structural steel and sublet the erection to the Wisconsin Bridge and Iron Co. It has three central spans, each 464 feet, and two side spans, each 377 feet. The bridge is owned by Camden County, Mo., and was opened to traffic December 28, 1936.

way Extension, Queens County, New York City, cost $114,000. The engineers were the Long Island State Park Commission and Triborough Bridge Authority, and the fabricators, the American Bridge Co. The span length, on skew, is 92 feet, square 74 feet, 8 inches. The owner is the Department of Parks, New York City, and the bridge was opened to traffic July 11, 1936.

So many excellent bridges of monumental size, class "A", were submitted, that the decision was a difficult one. In this class the Jury selected the following three for Honorable Mention: Henry Hudson Bridge, New York; West Bay Crossing, San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, California; and Fore River Bridge, Massachusetts.

The Annual Awards of the American Institute of Steel Construction, of which this is the ninth, have revolutionized steel bridge designing and construction throughout the world, according to leading engineers and architects. Today, the steel bridge is no longer a mere means of crossing a river or ravine, but must also blend into and emphasize the beauty of its surroundings.

Westerner Makes Heroic Rescue

Another example of western heroism, often regarded as part of the day's work by ready and willing outdoor men, was the feat of George Abernathy, inset. Washington logger, whose efforts were largely responsible for the rescue of Joseph Halwax, injured mountaineer, from a ledge high on the steep face of Mount Index near Seattle. Abernathy carried the injured man part way down the treacherous 1600-foot cliff and then protected Halwax from jagged rocks as the pair were lowered from the base. The diagram shows the route taken by the rescuers from the spot marked by the arrow, down over the shale at the base of the cliff and then by rowboat across a lake to a waiting ambulance.

August 18 Is Date Set for Water Pageant in New Pool

August 18 has been set as the date for a water pageant to be given in the new swimming pool, and preparations for the event are in full swing.

Jimmy "Red" Holston is in charge of lighting and seating facilities, and Miss Hazel Evans of the women's physical education department and Mrs. Bob Cox are in charge of the arrangements for music, costumes and properties. Hawaiian music will be furnished by the Buffalo Band, and seats will be furnished for the spectators.

Participants in the pageant proper will be the members of the swimming club and the swimming classes for men and women. The pageant takes the form of the acceptance of the pool by old King Neptune as a part of his domain. The uses to which the pool is put will be demonstrated before Neptune will accept.

The uses of the pool will be divided into four parts—swimming for health, safety, sport, and fun. Expert swimmers will demonstrate these four divisions. A Hawaiian theme will be carried throughout the pageant.

Everyone is urged to plan to attend, since it will be educational, amusing, and spectacular, according to Mr. Holston.

Widening River of Taxes Deluges U. S. Motorists With Higher Cost

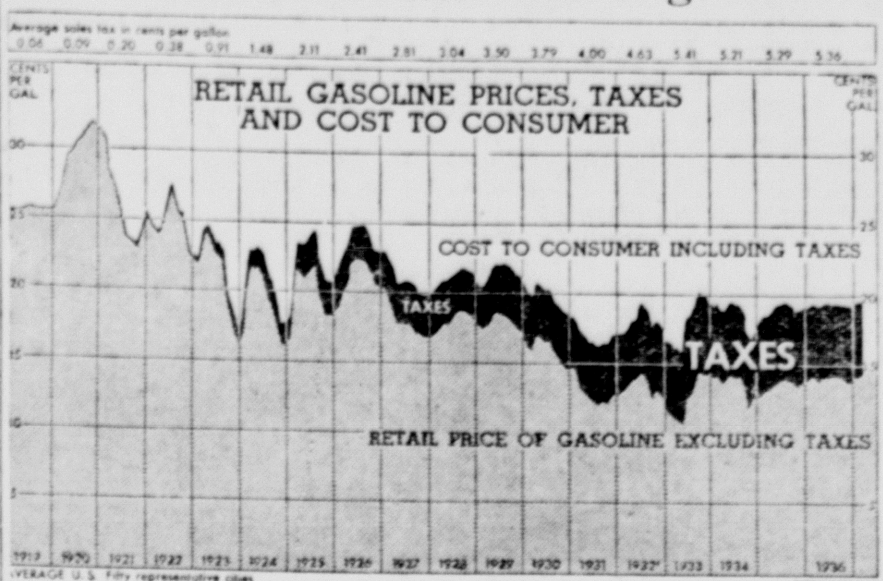

Chart shows how cost of gasoline taxes has increased since 1919, largely offsetting economies resulting from 50% reduction in gasoline prices. Preliminary estimates of the American Petroleum Industries Committee indicate these heavy retail sales taxes will extract nearly $1,000,000,000 from motorists' pockets this year.

Duplicating and hidden taxes, paid first to federal and then to state governments whenever and wherever gasoline is purchased, make a widening river of taxation deluging motorists with a higher cost. These taxes force motorists to pay one-third more for motor fuel.

Levied to finance highways, sales taxes on motor fuel cost only $1,000,000 in 1919, or a few cents per motorist. In 1936 the cost was close to $900,000,000, or over $30 per motorist. Estimates for 1937 indicate a total cost of nearly $1,000,000,000, greatest in history.

Despite the enormous increase in cost, proportionately less of the revenue is being used for highways. Millions of dollars are diverted to general purposes, thus causing neglect of roads and menacing public safety.

These levies, which constitute a retail sales tax sometimes exceeding 40%, highest ever levied on an essential commodity, make the motorist America's Taxpayer No. 1.

Another big gasoline taxpayer is the farmer, who owns and operates about one-fourth of all motor vehicles. Diversion of road money to general purposes hits him hard because he pays expensive taxes for roads which never are built! Biggest tax collector is the service station operator, one-third of whose time, equipment, and labor consists of collecting taxes from his own customers!

Hope for improvement is seen by automobile clubs, taxpayers' organizations, and Petroleum Industries Committees in the growing sentiment for repeal of the federal gasoline and oil taxes, and for amendments to state constitutions confining the use of gasoline tax income to roads. It is believed also that the continuing increase in motor vehicle registrations and in gasoline consumption soon will make possible the reduction of gasoline tax rates, thereby curtailing costs to each taxpayer.

Texas Historian In Favor of Coronado Festival in 1940

Albuquerque.—"The proper celebration of the 400th anniversary of the Coronado expedition is a debt of the present generation to the hearty pioneers who blazed the trail over untrodden mountains and desolate deserts," declared Dr. Carlos E. Castaneda, famed Texas author and historian, in an interview today. Editor of the centennial history of Texas, Dr. Castaneda is a member of the faculty of the University of Texas and national historian for the Knights of Columbus.

"It is only fitting and proper that the state of New Mexico should take the lead in the commemoration of this great event. With the dedication of the Padilla monument at Amarillo last month Texas served notice upon the world that the Coronado Cuarto Centennial will find that state taking an active part," said Dr. Castaneda. "We intend to co-operate with New Mexico in making this event the greatest in Southwest history."

Dr. Castaneda pointed out that with Arizona's plans already beyond the tentative stage the Centennial is definitely assured. Texas has already begun to carry out plans for the event, with the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society being made the official group for effecting the organization in that state.

"New Mexico must realize her leadership in this movement, for to fail now would mean waiting another century for such an opportunity," the Texas historian said.

New Mexico leaders commenting upon Dr. Castaneda's remarks stated that with the sale of Coronado memberships and the funds to be realized from the Commemorative half-dollar, New Mexico's part in the celebration is no longer in doubt.

Did Someone Mention Keys?

Keys to the city, and from the looks of things in the photo above, keys to just about everything else that has a keyhole, were handed to the Keyes quadruplets of Hollis, Okla., when they arrived in Chicago to make radio appearances. The quartet, from left to right, Mary, Roberta, Mona, and Leota, were graduated from Baylor University last month, and are 22 years old. They are the first quads ever known to have reached their majority.

Soil Conservation

substituted cattle for buffalo and made little change in this country. The development of farm machinery and the economic urge to grow vast quantities of wheat during the war and in the years immediately following, contributed to a major upset of one of nature's adjustments in this area. A vast acreage of land which had been covered by grass and thus protected against wind erosion for centuries was put to cultivation. After a few years the original grass roots had rotted away. It was then that we should have started on our first program of erosion control.

The average annual rainfall in Randall county is entirely adequate to produce good crops of wheat, states Mr. Upchurch. However, we have short cycles of wet years and of dry years. In the dry years moisture is not sufficient to produce good crops by ordinary methods. If the soil is not protected in seasons of crop failure wind erosion becomes serious. The great increase in wheat acreage was in 1918-29, a cycle of wet years. The land was new and wheat high in price, which served to create a sense of false security and an optimistic attitude of economic prosperity. The dry cycle started in 1930 at about the same time as did the economic depression with its cheap wheat and other troubles.

The first major tilt with wind erosion problems came at a time when farmers were least able to handle the problem owing to drastically reduced income. The situation was developed very suddenly. Most soil erosion is a slow process. Our soil erosion started swiftly by a combination of acts of man and a mood of nature that happened to coincide exactly.

The problem in Randall county would be far less had not the urge to grow wheat caused the plowing of other land to the north and west of us, which should be classed as marginal and remained in grass.

While the average annual rainfall, 20 to 21 inches, at Canyon is sufficient for growing of wheat under wise management and careful conservation, thousands of farmers are seeding wheat where the rainfall is less than 18 inches. This creates a hazard which should be given the most careful attention.

Every person should be interested in the wind erosion problem. A wet year or even a cycle of wet years in which there are no dust storms will not solve the problem. Marginal land is and will be farmed, and abandoned, to contribute its acreage to the sum total of the scar on the face of the earth.

The present program of the federal government is an attempt to check the loss of soil before it is too late. There is plenty of evidence this year that the program is sound and practically suited to this section. The program provides certain practices which will stabilize wheat production by decreasing production in seasons of abundant rainfall, by the simple process of diverting a part of the acreage from wheat to some soil conservation practice or crop. In seasons of short rainfall the production is increased because a part of the acreage is seeded on land which was rested the previous year.

This program is handicapped by those who do not understand the problem. A land owner or operator may lose sight of the long time good of the community for the sake of immediate profit.

"I do not hold with the man who says that a farmer should be compelled without compensation to conserve his soil for the common good of generations to come, if such conservation requires a sacrifice on his part not shared by the public," stated Mr. Upchurch. This line of reasoning assumes that a part of the cost of soil conservation should be borne by the government, since so much of the benefit accrues to the future.

The present program, which is administered by farm committees through the county agent's office, seeks to promote those practices which will conserve the soil and at the same time protect the income of the farmers so that they may be able to co-operate for the common good.

Visitors present were: Arthur Osgood, Herman Axelrod, Halie Erthman, M. O. Carder, all of Amarillo; Jack Myrose of Dalhart; Virgil Henson of Canyon; G. D. Foster of Colorado; J. B. Spear of Spearman. Dr. E. J. Cundiff was introduced as a new member of the club.

Outlaw Wounded by Hostages

Wounded and heavily guarded, Roy (Pete) Traxler, southwest bad man, is shown above as he lay in a hospital cot in Hugo, Okla., awaiting trial which may end in a death sentence for him. Traxler, charged with armed robbery, was shot by Frank Trimmer, lower left, and J. E. Denton, right, farmers who were held as hostages by Traxler and Fred Tindol, his fellow fugitive. The two men seized the desperadoes' guns while they were asleep, killed Tindol and wounded Traxler.

WHY NOT HONOR NEW COMERS

Shamrock Texan: We are getting tired of reading about all these pioneer and oldtimers celebrations. Why in the Sam Hill don't some town throw a big celebration in honor of the new comers and the strangers? They are the forgotten men and women—these people who have lived in a town or county only a few years. Why you'd think nobody amounted to a darn who was unfortunate enough to be born in East or South Texas or in some other state, and later to have moved out here.

Personally, we are proud of all our citizens, the newcomers right along with the natives. But between the two if any credit is due anybody, we say the newcomers are entitled to it as they came to this country by choice instead of happening to be born here. Of course, we are proud of the oldtimers, who settled this country and suffered sacrifices, but don't you think we should also be proud of our new settlers and our adopted sons and daughters from other states? After all, it's not near as important how long a man has been here as it is what he has done since he has been here.

Some of these days we're going to sponsor a celebration in honor of the newcomers and strangers, and maybe offer some prizes to the newest comers of the bunch.

We say more power to you oldtimers and also more power to you strangers.

Jimmy: Too bad about Alford wrecking his car last night, especially with his girl along.

Norman: Did something go wrong with his car?

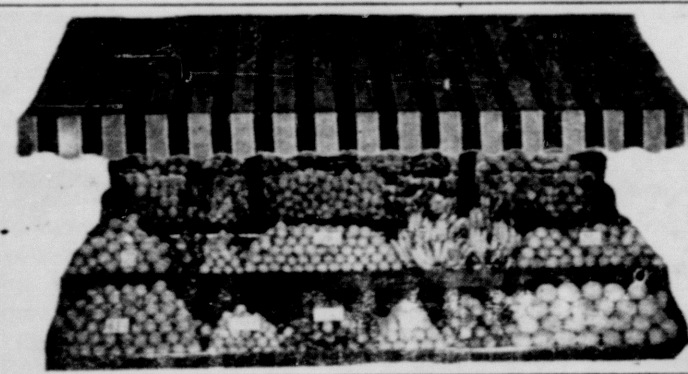

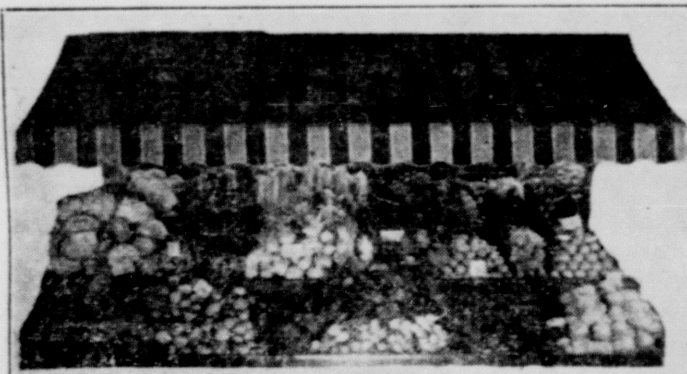

Jimmy: Yes, too much play at the wheel.
